- Keep text minimal

NO PARAGRAPHS

Since you're usually adapting a written report when you're building a presentation, it can seem natural to include long passages from the pages of your report in your slide deck. But a slide is not a page, and you never want to include paragraphs of text in your presentation. Why? Because it's information overload for your audience. They'll never be able to read everything and, if they try to read it, they won't be able to multitask and will stop listening to you. Either way, you're going to lose your audience. So keep the text minimal.

CLEAR AND SIMPLE TEXT

- Never smaller than 20pt
- Clear, san-serif font
- Simple formatting for emphasis

BULLET POINTS

- Essential context and keywords for audience
- No more than 1-2 lines per bullet
- No more than 3-5 bullets per slide
- Simplify language
- Reveal bullets one-at-a-time

BULLET POINTS, CONT'D.

- Simplify language
- Reveal bullets one-at-a-time

BULLET POINTS

- Your bullet points should be no more than 1 or 2 lines long to avoid audience having to do unnecessary eye-sweeps of slide
- A good amount of bullet points to use it three bullet points
- It is OK to use 4 bullet points sometimes but, at most, use a maximum of 5 bullet points, and
- Never use 6 bullet points
- If you are using 7 bullet points, then you definitely are using too many
- You also ought to simplify the language you are using
